

Samford University
School of the Arts
Division of Music
Assistant Professor, Violin
(9-month)

November 22, 2024

Samford University's School of the Arts Division of Music invites individuals interested in serving in a Christian university environment to apply for the position of Assistant Professor of Violin, beginning August 2025. Additional consideration regarding tenure status may be given for exceptional professional experience and/or academic credentials. This full-time faculty position is a 9-month appointment.

The School of the Arts is a community of artists and designers working together in music, theatre and dance, art and design, architecture and interior design, and Christian ministry. The Division of Music, accredited by the National Association of Schools of Music since 1956, offers the following degrees: bachelor of music (instrumental, vocal, piano, and organ performance, music and worship, composition, piano performance and pedagogy), bachelor of music education (vocal-choral, instrumental), bachelor of arts (music, commercial music [including concentrations in music industry, music production, performance, and songwriting] and worship leadership [including concentrations in ministry, songwriting for worship, and worship production]), bachelor of science in music, master of music (church music, piano performance and pedagogy, vocal performance, instrumental performance), and master of music education.

For more information, see the Division of Music's web page: <https://www.samford.edu/arts/music/>

Qualifications

Qualified candidates are required to hold a minimum of a master's degree in violin performance from an institutionally accredited university (or equivalent), with preference given to candidates holding a terminal degree in violin performance, string pedagogy, or related field. Candidates are required to demonstrate effective teaching skills, expertise in strings, and experience performing in chamber ensembles.

Salary is dependent upon academic qualifications, professional experience, and previous academic teaching experiences. A tenure track position will require a terminal degree before appointment; non-terminal degree will qualify for non-tenure track position. The successful candidate must pass a background check.

Responsibilities

Responsibilities include teaching applied violin lessons to undergraduate and graduate students; building and sustaining an active string studio; coaching chamber music ensembles; maintaining national prominence as a teacher/performer; fulfilling teaching assignments in related areas and as assigned by the Chair of the Division of Music; maintaining creative/scholarly and service contributions as a faculty member; providing leadership to the endowed string quartet; and actively recruiting students to the string program and University.

The primary teaching load will be in applied strings. This position may include additional teaching assignments based on candidate strengths and school needs, including, but not limited to, collaborative performance, ensemble coaching/directing, and other responsibilities related to instrumental studies. A commitment to academic excellence in pedagogy and artistry is expected, as well as the ability to work effectively with faculty, staff, students, alumni, and community partners.

Application

Review of applications will begin December 6, 2024, and applications will be accepted until January 17, 2025. Please submit one PDF file comprising: a letter of interest; a complete curriculum vitae; links to no fewer than three video recordings of recent continuous live performances from the past year (additional materials may be requested by the committee, if needed); an application for faculty position, and a faculty applicant Christian mission statement.

Salary is dependent upon academic qualifications, professional experience, and previous academic teaching experience. The successful candidate must pass a background check, and applicants must be authorized to work in the United States, as Samford will not sponsor any employment visas for this position.
